Tip #4: Expand Your Definition of Learning

It is never too early to introduce children to life skills & encourage their application often. This helps them to feel like an important, contributing member of a group & fosters the development of a sense of responsibility for the household. There are appropriate chores for every developmental age-range: sorting & pairing socks (identifying pairs or sorting with similar items is a great way to practice spatial relations & symmetry); sweeping; making the bed are all developmentally appropriate for preschoolers & aid in developing both fine & gross motor skills along with cognition. Older kids can help prepare meals (measuring ingredients is a great way to explore proportions & fractions); wash & fold clothes; etc.

There are many every-day life skills that reinforce understanding of academic concepts. Once you begin to recognize that every experience is an opportunity for learning, & you demonstrate that to children, you will ignite the spark to build a lifelong passion for learning!

The State of Mississippi's Family Guides for Student Success are excellent resources that provide suggested activities for preschoolers thru 8th graders which are especially helpful for practicing & exploring key math concepts.

Visit the Learning Made Fun With Maestra Casiano Online Store & Learning Hub to explore various educational theories, parent resources, products, & other innovative ways to support your child's experience as a unique learner!
